

Illuminating the Inner Path

with the devotional music of

Anaam

Benefit Concert & Fundraising Event for Temple of the Goddess

Journey to Self through the Sacred Labyrinth
Saturday, March 1, 2008 at 7:30 P.M.

COST: $10.00 RSVP: 818-771-5778
(Space is limited. Please make reservations early.)

“The Onion” Sepulveda Unitarian-Universalist Church
9550 Haskell Avenue, North Hills, CA 91343

Join us for this special event which combines Kirtan music, a sacred form of Indian devotional singing, with the power of the ancient labyrinth, a spiritual journey to illuminate the inner path of the seeker. Walking the labyrinth is a journey to our own center and back out into the world—a journey to wholeness. It is an awakening, an initiation of one's sacred purpose. The journey inward is a purification and clearing and the return journey is one of dedication and commitment. Accompanied by the sacred sounds of Anaam, you will have the opportunity to quiet your mind, open your heart, and walk with intention, into the inner realm of the self. This powerful experience while done individually is connected to the community experience.

Anaam: Cheryl Caddick, Eric Layer, Mara Hesed, Duke Novak & Prabhu Prakash have been making sound together in one way or another for years. An eclectic mix of rockers, classically trained, musicians, harmonica junkies, ascetics, and miscreants, their Kirtan is an extension of their strong personal commitment to yoga, meditation and making the whole world sing!

Please join us in community and circle to the center on a journey of reflection, initiation, and dedication.

All proceeds will go directly to Temple of the Goddess to support its ever-evolving mission.

Call 818-771-5778 and make your reservations today.

For more information go to http://www.templeofthegoddess.org/Events/special_events.htm